“Everything we do now must be done in a sacred manner, and in celebration because WE are the ones we have been waiting for” – Hopi Elder

For the many of you who know me, both my many friends online, and in real life, I ask that as you read this work, you remember our friendship and the person you know me to be and consider the things I am about to say at face value.

Push the pause button on your life for a moment, relax, free your mind and take in the reality what I am about to reveal to you in this book. I ask it both as a favor to me and as a favor to your self.

Most importantly, I ask, no I BEG, of you that no matter what your beliefs may be, even if you are the most ardent and devout Christian ever, that you please, please set your beliefs aside for the duration of this work and that you read this material in full and with an open mind. Even if only for this one time, honestly and truly let down your guard and free your mind of Religious distractions. It’s important that you do because as even Jesus him self is reported to have said: “The truth will set you free.”

And for anybody who has ever considered me too outspoken, or to be crazy or insane or just a “conspiracy loon,” then rest assured that what I’m about to tell you in this book will confirm it for you completely.

In my defense, all I can say is that in my life as a traveling musician I have been fortunate enough to spend most of my time on the “outside” of society looking in. I understand how fractional reserve banking works and so I’ve never once had to worry about interest rates as I’ve never taken out any loans, never had a credit card and I could never see the point in buying a house I would never truly own. I always thought that people took such things too seriously.

The life that is led by a traveling musician may seem strange or exotic to most people and definitely pointless and irrelevant to some, simply because a musician just doesn't do regular stuff. They don't work regular hours, are often only ever in any town for short time and many don't even have regular homes for months or sometimes even years on end. As I previously said, a traveling musician lives more on the outside of society than within its confines. Because of that, and because of the music, a musician is able to meet, and interact, with a great many people from all walks of life and a great many countries, cultures and classes that many other people are not. This gives them a unique perspective and if they are astute, take advantage of such situations and learn from such interaction, they are able to gain a valuable insight and understanding of many different facets of human kind and many things that remain unseen or unknown to most other people. Many people may say, "Oh what would they know, they are just a musician" but they often forget that they themselves listen to music and would gladly interact with most musicians and it is the same with people that they themselves would never, or are unable to meet.

Somehow music breaks down the barriers between most cultures and classes and opens doors that would have otherwise remained closed. Plus because a musician is able to make a living from his or her art, they are able to pursue more philosophical and intellectual interests and to ponder, investigate and connect the information they have gathered in their spare time, as they have so much more of it than a person who must work regular hours at the same job. I feel very privileged to have been granted the gift of music and to have been able to do many of the things I have done and meet the many people I have. Purely through music I have, in many ways, been able to view society from a different angle to many and those who know me, whether we are still friends or not, all know that I have an extremely analytical mind.

I have spent many years of my life both traveling and researching and the honest truth is that the more you meet people from different cultures and classes, and the more you actually begin to investigate the world, its religions and its history, the more you begin to see that there are lies, quite literally, everywhere. Most especially in what we - as in YOU and ME - are taught as fact at school, or from other sources such as the history channel virtually every other history program that is seen on TV and even more especially on the TV News and in the daily newspapers.

Now I KNOW that these next two paragraphs are going to sound weird to you but when people like John Lennon sang "ALL YOU NEED IS LOVE", he was way ahead of his time and he was also absolutely correct, because believe it or not, it is only by surrendering and loving those around you can you actually free your mind and enlighten your spirit. And I'm not talking about sex, I'm talking about LOVE. I'm talking about forgetting the differences you have with people and simply loving them; unconditionally. Look at them, see inside them and understand that they are just like you. In fact, they ARE you - we are each other. Forget the yoga and self help programs and simply surrender to love because that is where true enlightenment lies. Once you begin to give yourself, and to harbor feelings of true empathy towards all others, regardless of class, creed or belief, you begin to feel wholeness. And the more you truly give of yourself to others, the more whole and the more enlightened you become because in truth there is no “we” there is only One.

There is no other way that enlightenment, oneness with this earth, with each other, and thus oneness with God can be achieved.

There is but One path - and lies not with Religion.

That is why society seeks to divide and distract with such things as class, wealth, race, color, sex, religion and every other form of separatism they can find. Then it molds your thoughts and opinions and teaches you what to think on a daily basis without your even knowing it by using the greatest hypnotists ever conceived and employed:

Television and the Mass Media.

When you truly love others and give of yourself, you begin to awaken. Part of this awakening is that your vision of the world changes, and when you have gained the right kind of eyes to see it, it becomes abundantly clear that there is a force and power that is in control of this world; a force that goes unseen, unfelt, and unnoticed by the people.

It is a force of very great and ever present power, and it has a very firm and very purposeful grip over our entire planet.

And it is not God.

You, every single one of you, are under control and you don't even know it and the only way to escape that control truly is through love, and as you ponder those words, do not listen to the ego driven pride inside you that scoffs at the statement or assures you how informed you are, because it is a lie and whether you realize it or not, you have been trained to react that way.

Instead of reacting against the information, brush aside ego, pride and anger for a moment and listen to the voice that cries out from very much deeper inside yourself, the so called and much ridiculed “inner child” who knows the words I speak are true.

As Albert Einstein once said: “Common sense is the collection of prejudices acquired by age 18” and I ask you to now set aside those prejudices because the real truth is that every single thing that you have been taught to believe by mainstream education institutions and television about the societies we live in and the entire history of this planet, is false.

Everything that happens around you is designed to be that way. Sure there are the daily spontaneous events that occur during normal human interaction which make it all seem like a natural affair, but even they are illusions.

Quite literally EVERYTHING is controlled. And it is happening right before your eyes if you would but open your mind to see it.

My friends, the matrix has you.

And it is real.

Now, when I say “the matrix” I'm not saying the world is made up of lines of green computer code, I'm simply saying that we are living in a false reality and the matrix is the only term I can think of to appropriately describe it.

You are an incredibly enlightened being who is capable of very great and wondrous things. Quite literally ALL OF YOU! But you have forgotten because you are kept dumbed down and controlled by a very carefully balanced system.

Your ego and pride will tell you that I am simply accusing you of being stupid and that such a thing is not so and COULD NOT be so. But it is so, and I am not calling you stupid, for this controlling of your thoughts is done subconsciously and on both a mental and physical level.

Many will take offence and say: "I'm smart. I'm informed. Fluoride is safe and food additives are there to protect us, and YOU can't tell me I'm dumbed down! I HAVE AN EDUCATION!" Yet the truth is right in front of you if you would but pause for a moment to look and see it.

Occasionally people have woken up to the reality of this, but those people who do become aware of even just a small fraction of the truth are always the most ridiculed, especially by the media and so become the most laughed at by society, because it is very important for the continuation of the illusion that such people are never taken seriously.

Most are called insane or delusional or simply labeled as conspiracy nuts, while others are imprisoned or assassinated, for they are the most dangerous men in the world to the delicate balance maintained by the elite who rule you.

But even the elites are merely the tool of the controllers. The elites are the puppets whose job it is to shepherd society and mold its thoughts and beliefs, to keep human kind misinformed, disempowered and running on an ever accelerating treadmill. The task of the elite is to distract you, divide you and prevent you from ever becoming truly aware of reality. They know full well that if mankind were to ever actually awaken en masse and become truly aware, it would mean the end of their control, so they work diligently every day to ensure their hegemony is maintained and they employ a great many means to achieve their goals. But even still, ultimately, the elites are simply the many splayed fingers of the hidden hand belonging to the true controllers. And so the many are controlled by the very few...

But they are a powerful few.

Our societies, our media, our education system and the entire zeitgeist under which we live has been cleverly created to conceal the truth by means of a number of very simple yet very effective mechanisms. Through these machinations we have been trained and conditioned to subconsciously interpret much real and very important information or anything that may cause us to question our beliefs as attacks against ego and to mock, laugh or even to lash out and physically attack such people as those who attempt to speak the truth and I have little doubt that I too will be called delusional and crazy. I will be ridiculed, mocked, berated, and abused, and I expect such treatment. George Orwell once, so very philosophically, wrote: In times of universal deceit, telling the truth becomes a revolutionary act" but only in becoming part of the solution can a person cease being part of the problem and so I will say these things, whatever the consequences may be.

Albert Einstein also said: "Reality is an illusion, albeit a persistent one" and he was completely correct in his statement, even more so than you can imagine for human kind is kept in a false reality state of complete confusion and total unawareness every single day. It is done by design to prevent us ever realizing the truth about ourselves, our connection to each other, our connection to nature, the planet upon which we live and about our true connection the power that men have called God.

But there is a great awakening taking place among many individual souls across the expanse of the planet.

Awakening is a strange and unnerving experience but once the mind becomes clear and knowledge is obtained, the task of what to do with that knowledge and how to bring it to the attention of the masses, is a massively daunting one. Indeed the information and the implications of it are so utterly staggering that it is doubtful there are any who would even believe the truth of the reality they live in.

When J Edgar Hoover made the statement: “The individual is handicapped by coming face to face with a conspiracy SO monstrous, He cannot believe it exists” he was uttering a gross understatement.

Awakening comes in stages, a question here, a philosophical moment there, maybe a piece of information input that jogs a distant memory, and I have always been one who sought out knowledge, but at some point in time there comes a powerful moment of true enlightenment and from that point one can never view the world in the same way again.

The fact is that this planet has been controlled by an unseen force for a great many years, millennia in fact, and it still is. We have been left many, many signs by our forebears and previous civilizations to inform us of these facts. The people of the earth simply don't realize it because our societies are constructed in such a way that people are kept constantly busy or too distracted to notice it.

And most importantly of all, the people are kept divided and utterly misinformed.

Would it surprise you to know, that Cancer is curable? Don't believe me? Follow the simple steps on my Home page. Would it surprise you to know that free energy is a reality and that you can run your car on common tap water? Don't believe me? Write to me and I will send you the plans. Would it also surprise you to know that our life spans are supposed to be far longer than they are?

Your media tells you that we live far longer than our ancestors yet even biblical stories produce ages of over 300 years. The truth is that the chemicals and additives that are put in processed foods are not there to help you. There are there to drug you, control you and shorten your life spans. They are there to poison you, inhibit brain function and to help keep you in this false reality.

In the first book of this series it was made abundantly clear that our history is simply not what we have been led to believe and as unfortunate as it may be to admit, there comes a time when we must face the fact that we have been lied to, on all counts, by those we have entrusted to guide us. Sadly they have been derelict in their duty and we have now reached a point where the human race seems to have lost track of it's self completely. It's almost as though we have forgotten who and what we are.

We have become almost like automatons.

We have been lied to my friends, we have been lied to by every single institution we have ever entrusted to inform us. We have been taught to look in the wrong places for what we are searching for.

The question is:

Why?

The purpose of this book, is to answer that question.
